ONX WINES 2017 FIELD DAY PASO ROBLES, CALIFORNIA

At ONX (pronounced “onyx”) we believe in freedom, creative expression and exploration. A combination of time-honored winemaking traditions and a penchant for adventure result in wines that are as pleasing to the palate as they are intriguing to the intellect. We let the vineyards express themselves each harvest with as little interference as possible, while hyper vigilant to ensure that canopy and crop loads remain in balance to achieve optimal fruit ripeness.

TASTING NOTES: Like a Tai Chi garden on the side of a Hawaiian volcano, the 2017 Field Day balances ease and adventure. The straw colored blend presents a fresh and fruity nose of mango, Georgia peach, and feijoa that play nicely with the wine’s refreshing minerality. Green tea and grapefruit highlighted by pops of lime zest cascade over the palate, complementing the mouth-watering acid that lasts well into the finish. Tropical notes of pineapple and guava linger long after the finish and beg for another taste.

Composition: 63% Sauvignon Blanc, 28% Grenache Blanc, 9% Viognier

HAARMAYER WINE CELLARS 2016 “CRESCI” CHENIN BLANC LODI, CALIFORNIA

Haarmeyer Wine Cellars is a family team, composed by winemaker Craig, his son Alex, wife Kelly, and daughter Marian. Craig started the winery in 2008 by sourcing fruit from a vineyard farmed by Ron Silva in the little town of Galt, California. At the time, he was interested primarily in wines using Spanish and Portuguese varieties, mainly because of the dry climate. The place seemed right for the numerous varieties of Iberian grapes Ron was farming. This lead him to consider other sites and, as his mind expanded, he felt like he was, in a way, trying to define and express terroir. Today, his diverse portfolio of wines includes Chenin Blanc from the fertile and marine influenced river delta, Zinfandel from the austere and rugged foothills and many more varieties from vineyards in between.
